Dear Aaron,

On behalf of the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia, I wanted to make sure your office was aware of two recent events in Iowa.

- In September, Abdulrahman T. Bakir, Vice President of Investment Attraction and Development USA for the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia's Ministry of Investment, participated in a two-day visit to the state of Iowa. During the visit Bakir met with Iowa business leaders, key international trade and economic development organizations in the state, and spoke with the Des Moines Business Record. The visit focused extensively on the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia's Vision 2030 program and the Kingdom's efforts to diversify their economy for the 21st Century.
- In October, Her Royal Highness Ambassador Reema Bandar Al-Saud addressed the attendees of the monthly meeting for the Siouxland Chamber of Commerce's Women Mentoring and Networking committee. After being introduced by Linda Kalin, executive director of Iowa Poison Control Center, HRH Ambassador Reema focused her remarks on the recent reforms implemented by Saudi Arabia to promote and protect women entering the workforce and throughout society. She highlighted many similarities between women in the workforce in the U.S. and Saudi Arabia as they seek to advance and succeed in the workplace.

Please see the attached cover letters and summaries, which provide additional details on these important events.

I welcome any feedback you or Senator Grassley may have.

All my best,

Norm

Kingdom of Saudi Arabia
Ministry of Investment
Iowa Meetings
Sept. 24-25, 2020

Dear Aaron:

As you may know, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, under its transformative Vision 2030 program, is committed to diversifying its economy while continuing to expand their 75 years of partnership with the United States. These dual goals are predicated on strengthening the Kingdom's economic ties with the U.S. and specifically with American businesses in all 50 states.

To that end, I wanted to reach out and let you know that Abdulrahman T. Bakir, Vice President of Investment Attraction and Development USA for the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia's Ministry of Investment recently visited Iowa for a series of meetings with Iowa companies and prominent business organizations.

Iowa is home to numerous industry leading companies and is a well-respected pro-business state, not just domestically but internationally. Bakir was struck by the impressive and diverse array of Iowa businesses and how companies focused on manufacturing, science, and agriculture have flourished in Iowa. Bakir additionally met with Iowa Economic Development Authority Executive Director Debi Durham and Greater Des Moines Partnership CEO Jay Byers on potential opportunities for Iowa companies in Saudi Arabia.

Finally, Bakir noted throughout his visit and in the days following his return to Washington, D.C. that every Iowan he encountered, whether it was in a meeting or at a restaurant or even just on a sidewalk in Des Moines, could not have been nicer, more sincere, or helpful. He wanted to express his thanks for his overwhelmingly positive experience visiting Iowa and how he hopes to return again soon.

I have attached an overview of Bakir's meetings and the trip overall. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Sen. Norm Coleman

Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia Event Summary

Iowa International Trade Visit: Abdulrahman T. Bakir Ministry of Investment of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia

September 24 - 25, 2020
Des Moines, Iowa

Abdulrahman T. Bakir, Vice President of Investment Attraction and Development USA for the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia's Ministry of Investment participated in a two-day visit to the state of Iowa on September 24 - 25, 2020. During the visit Bakir met with Iowa business leaders, key international trade and economic development organizations in the state, and even spoke with the Des Moines Business Record. The visit focused extensively on the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia's Vision 2030 program and the Kingdom's efforts to diversify their economy for the 21st Century.

On Thursday, September 24, 2020, Bakir met with the Iowa Economic Development Authority's (IEDA) Executive Director Debi Durham and their International Team Lead Peggy Kerr. Bakir, Durham, and Kerr participated in an in-depth and extremely informative discussion regarding future opportunities in Saudi Arabia for Iowa's nation-leading commodity groups and businesses.

The sentiment of the morning IEDA meeting was echoed further during the afternoon in a meeting with the Greater Des Moines Partnership's CEO Jay Byers, International Trade Manager Ryan Carroll, and members of the Partnership's International Trade Council and membership. Bakir expanded beyond trade conversations in this dialogue by sharing tourism and attraction initiatives recently spearheaded by the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia under Vision 2030.

Over the course of this two-day visit, Bakir also met with many of Iowa's private companies, industry leaders in the manufacturing, science, and renewable energy sectors. Bakir discussed with these business leaders, the Kingdom's interest in manufacturing investment, energy diversification, and advancements in the realm of entrepreneurship within the Kingdom. The bold reforms and transformation efforts occurring in Saudi Arabia under Vision 2030 aim to generate opportunities for all Saudi Arabian citizens and attract world partners to invest, build, and explore all the Kingdom has to offer.

Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia
Siouxland Chamber of Commerce
Women Mentoring & Networking Event

Dear Aaron:

I am reaching out today to let you know that the Siouxland Chamber of Commerce recently hosted Her Royal Highness Ambassador Reema Bandar Al-Saud, Saudi Arabia's Ambassador to the United States, as their guest speaker for their monthly Women Mentoring and Networking meeting on October 6, 2020.

As you are aware the Siouxland Chamber of Commerce is the leading Siouxland-area business advocate and works to promote the economic welfare of the tri-state area, covering Nebraska, Iowa, and South Dakota. HRH Ambassador Reema shared her thoughts on issues impacting women in business globally and highlighted the transformation occurring in Saudi Arabia as a result of Vision 2030. According to the World Bank Group's Women, "Business, and the Law 2020 Report", Saudi Arabia made the biggest yearly improvement empowering women globally.

HRH Ambassador Reema was able to provide additional details to these advancements and reforms while also describing her personal experiences advocating for women at home in Saudi Arabia and abroad. She further highlighted the numerous common goals and experiences she's seen between women in both the U.S. and Saudi Arabia.

Attendees had the opportunity to pose questions to HRH Ambassador Reema, who received overwhelmingly positive feedback from attendees and hosts of the Siouxland Chamber's Women Mentoring and Networking committee. The event hosted approximately 50 guests, from non-profit leaders, elected officials, and business leaders from all three states, including:

- Chris McGowan – President, Siouxland Chamber of Commerce
- Linda Kalin – Executive Director, Iowa Poison Control
- Regina Roth – Co-founder, empirical

I have attached an overview of the event. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Sen. Norm Coleman

A Conversation with Her Royal Highness Ambassador Reema Bandar Al-Saud

Hosted by the Siouxland Chamber of Commerce
Women Mentoring and Networking Committee

October 6, 2020
Zoom Interactive Event
1:00-2:00 EDT

Her Royal Highness Ambassador Reema Bandar Al-Saud addressed the attendees of the monthly meeting for the Siouxland Chamber of Commerce's Women Mentoring and Networking committee on October 6, 2020. After being introduced by Linda Kalin, executive director of Iowa Poison Control Center, HRH Ambassador Reema focused her remarks on the recent reforms implemented by Saudi Arabia to promote and protect women entering the workforce and throughout society. She highlighted many similarities between women in the workforce in the U.S. and Saudi Arabia as they seek to advance and succeed in the workplace. Following her remarks, she participated in a question and answer session moderated by Kalin.

HRH Ambassador Reema discussed the bold transformation occurring in Saudi Arabia under Vision 2030. From diversifying the Saudi economy to opening Saudi Arabia to tourism, Vision 2030 touches every government department and Saudi citizen. Vision 2030 further seeks to empower women, an effort recently recognized by the World Bank Group whose annual Women, Business, and the Law report recognized Saudi Arabia as having made the biggest yearly improvement. Specifically, the report recognized Saudi Arabia for barring sexual harassment in both the public and private employment sectors, legally protecting pregnant employees from discriminatory dismissal, and mandating that women are paid equally compared to their male counterparts. HRH Ambassador Reema spoke passionately about these changes and answered questions from audience members.

Additional topics covered by HRH Ambassador Reema included:

- Ways women across the world can continue to succeed in businesses and society.
- Saudi Arabia's efforts to attract, educate, and keep young people in the country's workforce.
- HRH Ambassador Reema's accomplishments and professional experiences as a woman business leader.
- The growing number of resources women have in Saudi Arabia to network and connect within their own industries and communities.

The event concluded with HRH Ambassador Reema thanking the Women Mentoring and Networking committee and the attendees who joined the event. She further expressed the importance for the U.S. and Saudi Arabia to continue to explore and build on their vibrant and vitally important partnership in order to create solutions to the problems both countries are facing.

Following her remarks, she participated in a question and answer session moderated by Temte, in which she took questions from the audience.

HRH Ambassador Reema spoke about the common issues the U.S. and Saudi Arabia are facing when it comes to bringing 21st Century technologies to their rural communities. She highlighted the importance of the U.S.-Saudi partnership moving forward in order to reach solutions on these issues and build thriving economies rural communities across the world. HRH Ambassador Reema further remarked on the importance of trade and deepening the economic ties between our two countries.

HRH Ambassador Reema additionally discussed the bold transformation occurring in Saudi Arabia under Vision 2030. From diversifying the Saudi economy to opening Saudi Arabia to tourism, Vision 2030 touches every government department and Saudi citizen. Vision 2030 further seeks to empower women, an effort recently recognized by the World Bank Group whose annual Women, Business, and the Law report recognized Saudi Arabia as having made the biggest yearly improvement. Specifically, the report recognized Saudi Arabia for barring sexual harassment in both the public and private employment sectors, legally protecting pregnant employees from discriminatory dismissal, equalizing the retirement age for men and women, and mandating that women are paid equally compared to their male counterparts. Ambassador Reema spoke passionately about these changes and answered questions from audience members.

Additional topics covered by HRH Ambassador Reema included:

- How Saudi Arabia has responded to the COVID-19 pandemic
- Ways Saudi Arabia is diversifying its economy to reduce its dependency on oil
- Saudi Arabia's efforts to attract and maintain a steady flow of young people entering the country's workforce

The event concluded with HRH Ambassador Reema thanking the Jackson Hole Technology Partnership and the attendees who joined the event. She further expressed the importance the U.S. and Saudi Arabia to continue to explore and build on their vibrant and vitally important partnership in order to create solutions to the issues both countries are facing. Specifically, she touched on the potential for future partnerships between Wyoming and Saudi Arabia as they work to connect their citizens in rural communities and build thriving economies outside of traditional metro areas.

Wyoming Global Technology Summit

Dear Kara:

I am reaching out today to let you know that the Jackson Hole Technology Partnership recently hosted Her Royal Highness Ambassador Reema Bandar Al-Saud, Saudi Arabia's Ambassador to the United States, as a guest speaker for their 7th Annual Wyoming Global Technology Summit on Thursday, October 1, 2020.

The Wyoming Global Technology Summit has a strong history of highlighting cutting-edge issues in technology as their organization seeks to create rural jobs and accelerate accessibility to technology globally. HRH Ambassador Reema was pleased to participate in the "Fireside Chat" portion of the summit this year where she focused on the work Saudi Arabia is currently undertaking to expand access to technology and create jobs in the Kingdom's rural regions. She spoke at length on expanding and utilizing technology across the Kingdom as it is a foundational effort of Saudi Arabia's Vision 2030 mission. She additionally discussed Saudi Arabia's work to diversify their economy, inspiring reforms that have empowered women in the Kingdom, and the similarities and partnership between the U.S. and Saudi Arabia.

The event hosted approximately 80 guests from tech leaders, elected officials, and business leaders around the state and region, including Governor Mark Gordon, Dr. Ed Seidel, Wesley Chan, and Graham Weston. Attendees had the opportunity to pose questions to HRH Ambassador Reema, who received an overwhelmingly positive feedback from attendees and hosts of the Annual Wyoming Global Technology Summit.

I have attached a brief overview of the event. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Sen. Norm Coleman
